The feedback given on our project was that our add/edit task window was too small, that it cut off the confirm button. This meant a user would lock himself to that screen unless they knew you could resize the window to see the button. I easily fixed this by changing the dimensions from 300x400 to 300x450. Next piece of feedback was that it was hard to figure out how to run the project. They gave us some advice by saying we could give instructions in our README file. I gave specific step by step instructions so anyone could figure out how to run the project. They also noted that there are no restrictions to what you can put in the date box, so text filters were added. The last bit of feedback they gave was adding a green highlight to the row of completed tasks. This way it would be easier to see when a task is done. This was also added and now when there are a lot of tasks, it's easier to see which ones are completed.
